

Cease and Desist Order - Chapter IV 'Settle it out of Court'

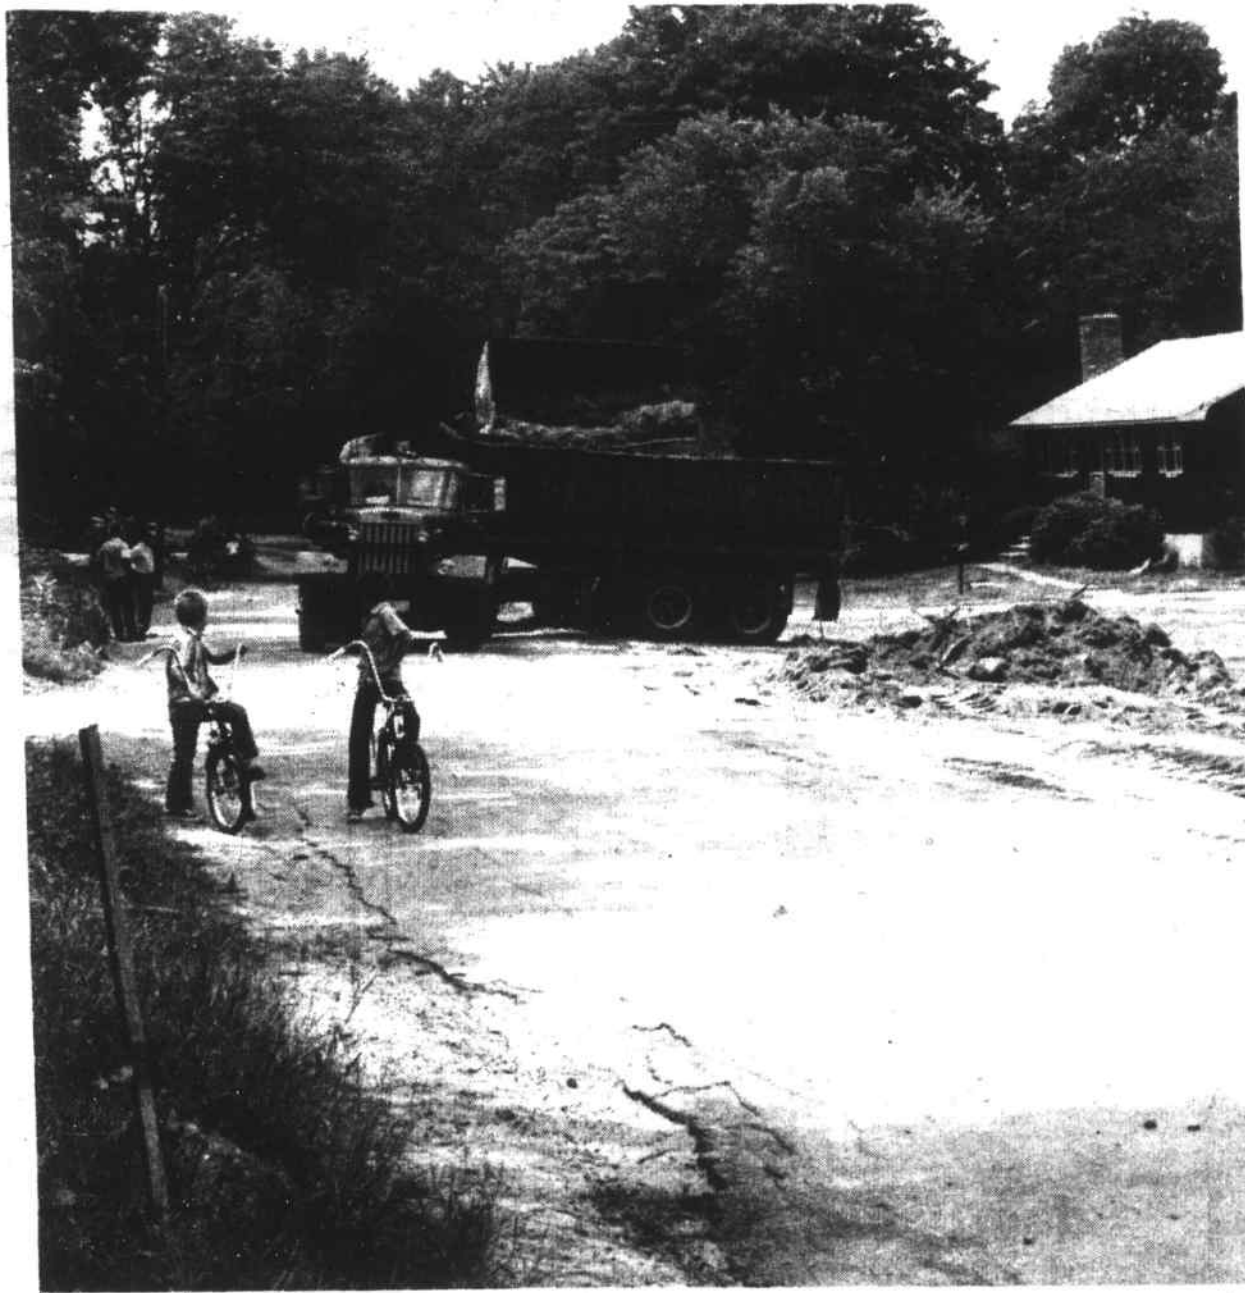

Arthur Paleologos, Clerk of the Court in Woburn District Court yesterday told the Town Counsel, Alan Altman, and Attorney Joseph Courtney that they should attempt to settle out of court, if possible, the four week old controversy about removal of gravel from an Aldrich Road site. The two attorneys, with sustaining witnesses, appeared before the Clerk of the Court at about 10 am and presented arguments until about 12:30 pm.

The arguments were both prolix and prolonged, in spite of an effort to agree on facts and thus make the discussion easier.

The locale of the argument is a twenty five acre tract of land off Aldrich Road, and next to Kendall Street. It has been approved as a sub-division by the Wilmington Planning Board. One of the proposed roads is an extension of Houghton Street. The land is owned by John Cormier of Woburn, who is the developer, and he is selling what was termed as excess gravel, to Ed Deloury of Wilmington and Andover.

Axelle Wurmser is Lions' guest

Axelle Wurmser, a young lady from Nancy, in eastern France, is currently the guest of the Carl Davidson family, Salem Street, in North Wilmington. She is one of eight young people who landed in Boston recently, and who are visiting this part of the country as guests of the Lions Club, International. Don Rotondo of Reading is the chairman of the Exchange Committee.

Axelle, who will be 18 in September, speaks both English and German, in addition to her native French. She is a preparatory student in her native Nancy, preparing to enter the University of Nancy, where she will study commercial subjects.

She will be in the United States five weeks, as the guest of the Lions International, and the Davidson family. So far she has visited Bunker and the USS Constitution.

Friday Axelle is to see the Freedom Trail, in Boston, and on Saturday she is to be the guest of the Lions Club at their regular annual picnic, at the Joe App place on Main Street.

Future plans are uncertain, but she is scheduled for a trip to Cape Anne and Rockport, with the Woodside family.

Other visitors from France, a part of the same program, are in Reading and North Reading (girls) and in Acton and Groton (boys).

Mrs. Davidson's sister, Eileen Godfrey, is currently visiting France as a part of the exchange program. At the moment she is in England, and she is busy sending cards to Wilmington friends, after which she will be in the village of Lillers, in France.

Eileen is due back home on August 20, in time to meet Axelle, who does not leave for her native France until August 23rd.

The Crusaders need a Nurse

Is there, in this area, a Registered Nurse who would like to make a bus trip to Prince Edward Island, Canada, all expenses paid, but no salary?

The Wilmington Crusaders, Drum and Bugle Corps, have been invited to that island, up in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, to participate in a parade on August 15. It is an Old Home Week, welcoming back the clans, according to a booklet which has been prepared.

The Crusaders are the only Drum and Bugle Corps from New England who will participate, and they are being featured, as guests of the island, and as guests of the Charlottetown Chamber of Commerce.

The Crusaders have been raising money, to make the trip. The costs have been set at $4000, via bus, and including meals, etc. Once the Crusaders have arrived at Prince Edward Island, the host island will provide food and lodging, so that going there, and coming home, is the thing that will cost.

To date the Crusaders have raised about $3500, from donations by businesses, organizations and friends and selling chances on a shopping spree. They still have about $500 to go, in the next two weeks.

They also need, it turns out, a Registered Nurse, to make the trip with them, a person who will care for any minor aches and pains, and minor injuries. The Nurse is not only to take care of the young people, who range from nine to 16 years, but will be able to assure their parents as well.

If there is a Registered Nurse who cares to volunteer, the number is (Susanne) 658-5039 or (Alice) 658-5169.

She will have to be available to leave Wilmington on August 13, at 7 p.m. and will return to Wilmington about 5 p.m. on August 17.

Whale films at the library

Next Wednesday, from 7 to 9 p.m. three films are to be shown at the Wilmington Public Library having to do with whales, dolphins and whaling history.

The films are entitled "In Search of the Bowhead Whale," "Whales, Dolphins and Men," and "We Call Them Killers."

Admission is free and everyone is welcome.

NO SIDEWALK SUPERINTENDENTS ON HOPKINS STREET: The job of reconstructing Hopkins Street was begun on Monday with hired equipment brought in to remove stumps and boulders. Until the job is completed, though, the sidewalk superintendents will have to remain in the street.

The Rev. Roy Fiske and friends

Fifty years ago, down on Parker Street, in Wilmington, there was a family by the name of Fiske. One of the boys was Roy. He attended Wilmington High School, and then moved out of town.

Roy is still alive - very much so, and living in Florida. The Town Crier heard of him recently, through a mutual friend, who also remarked that he is one of the dwindling number of persons who can recall the Rev. Stead Thornton, and the Rev. Benjamin Seaboyer, former pastors of the Wilmington Methodist Church.

For he is, today, the Rev. Roy A.

Fiske, senior pastor of the United Methodist Church, in Seminole, Florida. He became the senior pastor on June 15.

That church, as do many churches, has a custom each Sunday of asking visitors to stand, be recognized, and name their home town.

Viola and Wilbur Stavelly, who ten years ago or so moved from Wilmington to Vermont, are now in Florida. They stopped in at the church on June 15 and at the proper time stood up, announced their names and home town, and were surprised to hear the minister say, "oh, Viola Whipple" - that being her maiden name.

On the following Sunday it was the same thing, just about. It was Jerry and Ruth Hale who stood up - former Wilmington residents.

"What," said the minister "another one?"

But he wasn't through yet. On the third Sunday, June 29, it was Barbara Higginbotham and her husband who stood up - Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bowley.

But what the good Reverend had to say to that deponent saith not.

OBITUARIES

Buelah Barrows, widow of Bobby

Dora Barrows, better known as "Buelah," of 675 Lowell Street, Wilmington, died at Winchester Hospital, on July 22 after a brief illness. In her own way she was one of the "characters" of Wilmington.

Beulah, who was 73, came down from Canada many years ago, and became the wife of Bobby Barrows over 40 years ago. The couple lived in the old house on the corner of Woburn Street and Lowell Street which has been the subject of several stories in this paper, concerning the late Charles Swain (circa 1860) and Harry Boyce, Chief Watertender, US Navy, who was serving on the USS Cyclops when that vessel was lost (1918).

Bobby Barrows was the first son of the late Herbert Barrows, and as a storied individual was the equal of either Mr. Swain or Mr. Boyce.

Herbert Barrows was for many years a farmer of Wilmington and Chairman of the Finance Committee, the man for whom the Barrows Auditorium was named. Bobby was the only son of the first marriage of Herb, and was quite different from others in the family.

Bobby was a railroad "buff" and had pictures of hundreds of locomotives. He worked for his dad, driving a truck which is now in the Edaville Railroad Museum, in Carver. His death, in September 1963, was the result of an accident while he was using a power saw.

Beulah, who was always quiet and withdrawn, became more so after the death of her husband. She rarely spoke to anyone, and the only communications she had were with the family attorney, and a sister who lived in New Hampshire. She sold the many pictures which Bobby had collected to a Boston bookstore, and to some she seemed to mistrust anyone who had been a friend of Bobby's.

In 1967 the Bobby Barrows property became the subject of land speculation. In addition to the old house there was six acres of land, and a Danvers firm bought the land, intending to erect a motel on the property. Reportedly Mrs. Barrows was paid a sum of money in excess of $100,000, but that was a rumor which was never substantiated.

The motel never materialized. The money which was said to have been paid to Beulah became the subject of talk by those Wilmington people who knew the family, and it was said that Beulah was going to leave the money to her sister in New Hampshire.

But Beulah's sister died about two years ago, it is believed, leaving her with no direct heirs.

She continued to live in the old house, which was owned by the Danvers firm. She had no conversation with neighbors, except on rare occasion, and as old age came upon her she became more and more stooped. Only occasionally did she go out of her home, for brief visits to a store.

Private funeral services were held at the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home, 374 Main St., Wilmington, on July 26. The Rev. Peter Schreck of the First Baptist Church of Wilmington officiated.

Burial was in the Barrows family lot, in Laurel Hill Cemetery in Reading.

Security guard died at hospital

Lawrence E. McMahon, a member of the security department at Tewksbury State Hospital, died there Sunday, July 27. He resided at 108 blossom St., Lowell.

The son of the late Edward L. McMahon, he was born in Lowell. He was a graduate of the Sacred Heart School and attended Lowell High School. Prior to joining the hospital staff, he was an employee of the American Hide and Leather Co. for 30 years before that firm closed. He was also a member of the Lowell Lodge of Elks, a charter member of the Clover Club and the Leather Workers Union.

He is survived by a brother, Lt. Maurice McMahon of the Lowell Fire Department, and a sister, Mrs. Marion Guerin of Lowell.

His funeral was held Wednesday, July 23, at Sacred Heart Church. Interment was in St. Patrick's Cemetery in Lowell.

Mrs. Mirowski is survived by her husband, Stanley L. Mirowski, her daughter, Miss Karen A. Mirowski of Wilmington; her two sons, Francis S. Mirowski of Everett

Ross MacDonald, while visiting here

Ross A. MacDonald, of Kitchener St., Stewiacke, Nova Scotia died at Winchester Hospital on Monday morning. Mr. MacDonald had been stricken ill a few weeks ago while vacationing in Wilmington.

Mr. MacDonald, who was 50 years of age, was born in Eastern Passage, Nova Scotia, the son of the late William and the late Jessie (Conrad) MacDonald. At the time of his death, he was employed by the Maritime Cement Company in Stewiacke.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Jean Marie MacDonald, a son, Alan V. of Vancouver, B.C., two daughters, Miss Christine M. MacDonald of Halifax, N.S. and Miss Cynthia D. MacDonald of Stewiacke, N.S.; his three sisters, Mrs. Winifred Morrissey of Wilmington, Mrs. Gertrude Shawl of Quebec City and Mrs. Edith MacKay of Ottawa and his brother Scott MacDonald of Dartmouth, N.S.

and Stanley J. Mirowski of Lowell; her sister, Miss Susan Brown of South Boston and her three grandchildren.

The funeral was held from the W.S. Cavanaugh & Son Funeral Home, 374 Main Street, Wilmington on Wednesday morning at 9:15 followed by a funeral mass at St. Dorothy's Church at ten o'clock, which was celebrated by the Rev. # CETA program saves money for housing authority

5 TOWN CRIER, JULY 31, 1975

CETA is a Federal program in which work is performed for cities and towns. Money comes from the Federal government. There are many communities in which otherwise unemployable persons are thus gainfully employed, and Wilmington is one such community. From time to time there have been advertisements in the Town Crier, telling of positions which are open, through the CETA program.

One, last February offered a job to a Master Plumber, and George McGondle of 117 Federal Street responded. He is happy that he did. George had an accident, some time ago and had to give up his business. Now he is working full time for the Wilmington Housing Authority and, he says, "it beats construction."

George, who has lived for 23 years in Wilmington, is not only a plumber for the WHA, but he is also a sort of Clerk of the Works, in that he finds things that are about to go wrong, and has preventative measures taken.

According to Henry Borrazzo, the Executive Director, and Chairman George Hooper of the WHA, a lot of money has been saved in the past few months by the two CETA employees. George McGondle and Tom LoGuidice of 28 Williams Avenue. Tom is a Master Electrician, employed on a full time basis at the WHA.

George, in addition to being employed at the Old Age Housing on Deming Way, which is referred to as Project 667, is also employed in a project called 705, run by the WHA. In 705 homes in Wilmington have been purchased, and rented out in low income housing. George looks the houses over, and spots troubles before they occur.

In one instance, according to Mr. Borrazzo, he warned of a septic system that was about to cave in. The timely warning was a money saver, Borrazzo says.

On the Old Age Project (667), Mr. McGondle has been employed in replacing worn out piping and other plumbing, and he has been kept busy.

A few months ago there was a story in the Town Crier about brass and steel pipe, laid near each other, in cinders.

Electrolytic action had occurred, as it always does when two different metals can react upon each other. There was an emergency at the Old Age Housing, and a plumbing firm was called in. That emergency cost the WHA $2 thousand.

George's only comment is that any plumber knows better than to lay brass and steel, together, underground. He never would do it.

Since he has been employed at the WHA there have been three more instances in which electrolytic action has been taking place in underground plumbing, and George has taken care of all three.

Henry Borrazzo showed, through the books of the WHA, what the cost was. Discounting wages, paid by CETA, the cost for underground repairs in one instance, which was said to be comparable to that of some months ago, was $85.

Mr. Borrazzo keeps careful tabs on all jobs, and can show the costs in each case.

George McGondle is examining the plumbing in all forty apartments, in the heating plants, and in the recreation room/office.

$700 water deposit will be refunded

Policy for the extensions of water mains was redefined, in the Water Commissioners' meeting last Thursday, but it could not be voted because there was no quorum, with only George Allan being on the Board of Water Commissioners.

The policy was redefined in an hour long conversation, by Allan, with former Commissioner Arnold Blake, Town Counsel Alan Altman and the Town Manager.

It was decided, and when there is again a quorum of Water Commissioners will probably be voted that any future extensions of water mains, onto private streets or ways will have to be (1) only after an easement has been established, (2) with no less than a six inch water main, unless there are extenuating circumstances, and (3) the work will be performed under the Betterment Policy.

The decision came about because of difficulties on Clinton Street, which is a private way off Forest Street. There are two homes, the owners of which have a private water main, for which they paid the sum of $6,187 to the Wilmington Water Department.

Last May a lady in one of the homes stopped the connection of a new one inch water line to the water main by driving her car to the point where the connection would be made and then parking her car and locking it.

It was a somewhat dramatic gesture, and from the viewpoint of the lady it paid off, in that the Town Counsel decided that the Water Department was not to touch the car.

The one inch line, which was to service a third home being constructed on Lincoln Street, is still in the ground, and still unconnected. The man building the home is named Joe Barboza, and he has been helped in some of his difficulties with the town by Selectman Danny Gillis. Mr. Gillis was present for the discussion last Thursday, at the Water Commissioners.

Prior to the decision last Thursday Mr. Allan, Water Commissioner, described the policy of privately owned public utilities, in Massachusetts. Each property owner, on a private street, pays his share of the cost of the water main, and a new property owner pays to the other owners, in proportion, so as to make all ownership equal.

The description perhaps did not exactly describe the case on Clinton Street. Mr. Barboza does not own land on Clinton Street. His property is on Lincoln Street, another private way.

Barboza told Allan that the two owners wanted $20 to connect to their water main, and he had only $1000, which he offered them and which was apparently refused.

He had paid $700 as a deposit, to the Water Department, and had purchased privately a few valves which were used in the connection of the one inch line. The water line was laid, is now underground, and has not been connected to the Clinton Street water main.

The decision was to return the $700 to Mr. Barboza. The water line will presumably just remain in the ground, without being connected.

TOM LOGUIDICE, Master electrician, displays 110 v. wiring for thermostat, in one of the apartments on Deming Way.

GEORGE MCGONDLE: Master Plumber. At work in a toilet at the Old Age Housing projects on Deming Way.

Bits & Pieces

Among the majority

It has long been the contention of those who should know that the decent ones among them form the vast majority of our teen age population. Two members of that majority were caught red-handed last week in the very act of doing a good deed and although the story may embarrass them slightly - a pat on the back is due.

An elderly widow, a resident of West St., Wilmington has been badly in need of repair work to her back steps. Her plight was noticed by Bob Mauriello and Ed Bromander who were "shortcutting" through her yard, and they volunteered their services. The lady involved was doubtful, but decided to give the boys a chance to display their skills as carpenters. She is reportedly very happy for having taken that action. The boys knew exactly what they were doing and the steps are now "nearly as good as new."

Bromander attributes his talent with a hammer and saw to courses taken at Shawsheen Tech; Mauriello, a student at WHS says he picked up most of his pointers from his father.

Bob Butters ill

If residents of East and North Wilmington have been wondering why there has been a substitute mail carrier on their route, it's because the regular man has been hospitalized.

Bob Butters of 40 Middlesex Ave., a mail carrier in Wilmington for many years has been a patient at St. John's Hospital for over a week where he is undergoing treatment. According to a report last weekend, Bob is "doing well," but expects to be hospitalized for a while yet.

The Park household (Dot and Phil) on Ballardvale St., Wilmington has been kept busy for the last week or more entertaining guests, and they love it.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bower (Shirley Park) and their children, Michael and Debra left Wilmington on Tuesday for their home in Tempee Arizona, following a week's visit with Mrs. Bower's parents and Pauline Park of Phoenix, Arizona arrived for her visit on Monday night. Pauline is employed as a photographer for PCA Company in Phoenix.

Also making a recent visit to her family in Wilmington was Ruth Park (Mr. and Mrs. James Fuss and daughters Barbara and Cheryl) of Evergreen Park, Illinois.

Dot and Phil, who recently celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary said that "one of the nicest things to happen" was the receipt of an anniversary card from Alice Doucette, RN, 94-year-old former Wilmington town nurse who has been a neighbor of the Park family since "just about forever."

Back to normal

Ben Franklin in a Roman collar

The all talking, all singing, all dancing ...priest

by Bob Morris

The youngish man settled his slightly rotund body into the depth of the black vinyl upholstery. He shut the door of the green and white Oldsmobile, started the engine and began driving along River Road in Andover toward North Tewksbury.

He brought his right hand up to brush back the fair hair that blew across his forehead from the win that whisked into the car from the open side window. Then he reached down beside him, groped along the surface of the seat and pressed something.

Although he was alone in the car, an excited voice rang out beside him. "Franklin, where in God's name were you when I needed you?"

The Roman collar that pressed tightly against the man's neck bobbed slightly as he calmly answered, "Being preserved for posterity," in a voice similar to, but richer than the phantom questioner's. He continued, absently, "Do you like it?"

"It stinks," barked the phantom.

"As ever, the soul of tact," the man observed.

Scene explained

Most persons would probably be a bit mystified by the scene if they saw it duplicated in a car beside theirs.

But if they were with a friend from Tewksbury and Andover's St. Robert Bellarmine parish, the friend would probably say, "Oh, don't be concerned. That's just Father Martin from my church. He's using his tape recorder to rehearse for the musical comedy at the Town & Country Playhouse."

Although that comment itself might be a bit surprising to many persons, to many others in the greater Lowell and Lawrence area the statement would be accepted without a flicker of an eyebrow.

They've been calling the Rev. John C. Martin the "singing" priest for a decade, and have watched his theatrical talents grow steadily more professional even longer.

Parishioners know activities

Moreover, his parishioners know that the 37-year-old associate pastor is up to a lot more than developing for his own benefit talents that first came to light 27 years ago.

When he was a fourth grader he earned $5.67 for the March of Dimes polio campaign by staging theatrical productions of "Cinderella" and "Little Red Riding Hood" in Methuen. That same year, at only 10 years old, he was also confirmed as a Catholic.

The Madison, Maine native's theatrical talents disappeared beneath a blanket of other interests for seven years as he continued to grow up in Lawrence and Methuen.

Coming from a not particularly devout family, his deceased father was a Protestant, he also spent the next few years underneath a blanket on Sunday mornings. When he turned 15 years old he found a strong motivation for returning to active Catholicism.

Cause brings odd effect

"A girl I liked very much always went to church. Her mother told her to stay away from me because I didn't go," he explained in an interview. "I guess you could say I got involved in religion for the wrong reason."

However weak his original motivation was, the young Martin soon found himself heavily involved in activities at St. Monica's Church in Methuen, where his mother worked at the rectory to support her three sons.

"I helped the custodian there for a few years, and I was also involved with the scouts, CYO and other church activities," he recalled.

During his senior year at Tenney High School in Methuen, Martin's theatrical interests blossomed again.

Directs play

"My class sponsored one of the first senior class plays there, and I was student director," he explained. "I also sang for the first time in a talent show at the high school, and played a monsignor in a play put on by St. Monica's drama group."

During the summer after graduation, Martin also graduated from two summers of work as a cook, baker and salad man at the Allen A. resort in Wolfboro, N.H., to assistant social director and stage manager for theatrical productions there. "We put on a vaudeville show and a review every Friday," he remembered.

When the summer ended, he began a year of work as a cook in the cafeteria at the Western Electric plant in North Andover. He remembers going into his living room to watch a movie on television one Sunday that winter.

Picture sells vocation

"I found I was a few minutes early, so I sat down and began leafing through the Boston Catholic Directory," he recalled. "I remember seeing a picture of a graduating class at St. John's Seminary in Brighton and thinking that being a priest might be interesting."

"I wrote to the seminary for information, but when I got a reply, forget about information, I had an appointment with the director. I ended up entering the seminary that very September."

The new seminarian soon learned his theatrical skills could be of use to the school. He explained, "Each class had to put on a theatrical production, and I either directed or acted in several. I played the evil Claggart in 'Billy Budd,' for instance."

In addition, the young man of the cloth helped start what was called "The Tone Deaf Chorus" at St. John's. "It was made up of seminarians who enjoyed singing, but weren't all that good as individuals. We used to put on musical shows," he said.

Worked at resort

Between school years at the seminary, the theatrically inclined student of religion continued to support himself by working summers at the Wolfboro, N.H., resort.

For years he had been aware that there was a program held nearby that served retarded children on Gilmanton Iron Works land in Gilmanton, N.H. At the seminary he learned that the program, Camp Fatima, involved as many as 250 volunteers providing a one-week summer camp experience in late August for as many as 125 children of all races, creeds and religions from throughout New England.

In 1960 he decided to join the staff, and has served as special program director there ever since during a week of his annual vacation from parish duties. In that capacity he converted a conventional summer camp experience into a fairy tale life for the campers.

Knights chase Compugraphic

The East Division race of the Wilmington Recreation Softball League tightened up this past week as both Compugraphic and the Knights of Columbus teams continued their winning ways.

Monday night the Knights clubbed Converse Rubber 9 - 1 behind the talents of Jim Hachey. Hachey pounded a homerun and a single while pitching his team's victory. Neil McCabe aided the winning cause with a grand slam homerun. Ray Luciano had a pair of hits for Converse.

Compugraphic immediately followed the Knights' win with a Monday night conquest of their own.

The first place Compugraphic Club ripped Ralph's Automotive 6 - 2 with Jim Lobsein hurling the victory. Dave Newhouse took the pitching loss for Ralphs.

The win came on the heels of a Sunday night 9 - 5 blasting of hapless Raffi and Swanson by Compugraphic.

In that win Paul Bova was the winning pitcher as teammate Andy Sullivan was on the rampage with three Compugraphic hits. Raffi's Hank Drugan had a pair of hits.

The Knights of Columbus began the week's chase of the leaders last Thursday night with a tough 6 - 5 win over Ralph's. Jimmy Hachey picked up another pitching win here as Neil McCabe laced a double.

So these two teams continue the fight for first in the East as Compugraphic (13-2) leads the Knights of Columbus (14-3) by a hair.

In other Rec League games last week The Sting slaughtered Heffron Asphalt 16 - 3 as Joe Langone and Bob Fagan came up with three hits apiece while Gary Warford launched two homeruns into orbit. Heffron's Ray Noel ripped a homerun off winning pitcher Joe Gilligan.

Richard Gillis took a bath on the mound for the losers.

The Masonic Gang unloaded on Big W 12 - 6 last Thursday night. The win clinched fourth place for the Masons.

Mike Whalen and Herb Wallace had three hits apiece for the Masons. Norm Andres pitched a fine ballgame for the winners.

Bill Mutchler was the losing hurler.

Sunday night saw that same Masonic Gang locked in a tough 7 - 4 battle with the third place Hustlers. Andres once again shone on the mound as teammate Roger Mills unleashed a three-hit performance. The Hustlers' Ralph Barden also had a three hit night.

In a real slugfest Sunday, McNamara Tire nipped Scully Signal 16 - 13 behind the hitting of Paul Cawthorne and Bobby Frugillo (two hits) Scully's Roy Meyer contributed with a three-hit four rbi night.

Monday the Hustlers came back to take Heffron Asphalt 8 - 5 as Paul O'Donnell was the star with the mound victory.

The Hustler attack was paced by Phil Butler, Ralph Barden and Roy Anderson.

Jimmy McNally and Ray Noel had a pair of hits apiece for the losers.

In games played Wednesday July 23, Ralph's tipped Raffi and Swanson 7 - 6. Sweetheart bombed DRC 14 - 1, and Scully Signal outlasted Heffron Asphalt 16 - 11.

Baker MVP

BRENDA BAKER: turns it on for the Recs.

Recs in tourney triumph

The Wilmington Recs Blue unit defeated the Billerica Bobcats Sunday night to win the Merrimack Valley REcreation Softball Tourney at Chelmsford.

Brenda Baker was selected by the tourney committee as the most valuable player in the double elimination affair. Brenda shared the pitching chores in the tourney with Susan Rowe as Coach Charlie Baker's club overcame an opening round defeat to win five straight and with the wins came the tourney triumph.

Tue. July 22: The Recs Blue club stayed alive in the tourney with a convincing 23 - 6 win over Chelmsford with Susan Rowe picking up the mound win with four innings of relief pitching.

Tami Newhouse and Sharon Peters led the Wilmington offense with three hits each, while Peggy Winnett, Denise Dorval, Karen Surrrette, Jean MacKinnon and Brenda Baker chipped in with two hits apiece.

meanwhile at Town Park the Streakers topped the Tiggers, 22 - 7 to maintain their league lead in the girls division of the Youth Softball League. Joan Welch and Debbie Bent slammed out three hits each to lead Coach Cote's club to their third straight win. Betty Cote (3-0) tossed a four-hitter in posting her third straight mound triumph. Linda Hardy (0-1) was the losing hurler in her initial starting mound appearance of the season.

In the other girls encounter, the Sluggers outscored the improving Pink Panthers 17 - 16. Linda Moore cracked out three hits, while her sister Nancy chipped in with two to lead Coach Smith's club. Coleen Dowd, Linda Travaglia and Cheryl LaFave had two hits each for the Panthers.

The Wedges dumped the Silver Lake Sox, 20 - 18 in the opening game of the boys division. Tom Tower (2-3) struggled to post his first win since early June for the Wedges, while Tim Gould (0-4) was losing his fourth straight. Bill Sinopoli, Bob Fullerton and Ken Gray had two hits each for the winners, while Tim Gould wrapped out three hits for the Sox.

In the nite cap, Al MaGoon's slipped past the Cellar Dwellers, 9 - 6 with Don O'Connell (2-) gaining the win over Gary Minks (2-3).

In the baseball action the Mulno-Woods nine lost to Lowell, 11 - 3 in the final meeting between the two clubs this season. Barry Foster (1-4) went the route for the REcs, walking 11, while striking out eight, but inept fielding led to nine unearned Lowell runs and there was the difference. Ken Kumm had two hits for the Recs.

Wed. July 23: The baseball club snapped a six game losing skein edging Andover, 5 - 4 in eight innings to bring their seasonal mark to 8-11-1. Ken Kumm's booming triple over the Andover right fielder's head scored Ray Gaud from first with two outs in the last of the eighth. Chris DeLuca (4-2) went the route for the Recs allowing nine hits and two walks, while whiffing eight.

Wilmington had to overcome a 3 - 0 first inning deficit to eventually tie the contest at 4 - 4 in the last of the fourth.

In the MVRSB Tourney, the Recs scored six runs in the top of the first inning and went on to knock the Chelmsford Wings out of the tourney by a 19 - 3 score. Brenda Baker picked up the win, while Denise Dorval and Tami Newhouse paced a 20 hit Wilmington attack with three hits each.

Thur. July 24: The Recs Blue unit avenged an earlier tourney loss to Billerica by defeating the Bobcats, 25 - 11. The key to the win was a 14 run third inning to put the Recs out in front to stay, 15 - 3.

Susan Rowe and Brenda Baker shared the pitching chores once again, while Kathy Madden slammed out four hits in a 22 hit attack. Mary Alice Woods, and Susan Rowe chipped in with a brace of singles each to aid the cause.

Fri. July 25: Concord came from behind to tie the Recs baseball nine, 5 - 5 as the Wilmington club could not hold on to an early 3 - 0 lead. Rich Medeiros went the distance in his third start of the summer season. The Chunky righthander allowed eight walks, while whiffing four.

At Town Park, the Streakers whipped the Pink Panthers, 14 - 5, while the Tiggers were upsetting the Sluggers, 15 - 4 in the girls twin bill. In the boys set, Victor Coffee topped Joe App's, 12 - 6 with Dave MacMillan (4-0) gaining the win of Babe Coolidge (2-2); while S.W.A.T. slipped past the Curb, 18 - 17.

Sat. July 26: Joe App's scored the go-ahead run on the strength of Kevin Kleynen's triple and Dan Sughrue's fly ball in the last of the seventh to edge The Curb, 12 - 11. Collidge (3-2) gained the mound win over Pat Fullerton (2-3).

The Recs White club overcame a third inning 6 - 0 deficit to defeat Methuen, 19 - 6 in a Northwest Suburban League encounter. Joan Welch (two doubles), Terry McDonough, Barbara Moulton, Sandy Carlson and Betty Cote had two hits each for Coach Jim Hastings' first place ball club.

Al MaGoon's septic Goode defeated Victor Coffee, 7 - 0 in the nitecap to gain a share of the boys division first place.

Sun. July 27: The Recs Blue club gained the tourney win with a thrilling 23 - 6 triumph over Billerica. Tami Newhouse slammed a two-run homer and Sharon Peters a two run triple to pace the Wilmington offense. However, it was a true team effort which won the tourney, first ever, for any Wilmington girls team.

Mon. July 28: The Recs nine lost their third straight meeting with Dracut 5 - 2 to conclude their seasonal series. Barry Foster (1-5) went the distance walking eight, while striking out five in a solid performance.

Foster led the hitting attack with a brace of hits, while the other five hits were made by Bill Sinopoli, Rich Medeiros, Ray Gaud, Bob Woods and Ken Peters. The Recs are now an overall mark of 8-12-1 with only two games left to play.

... priest

He explained, "We started having a theme, usually based on a children's story, Disney characters or some current news event. We revolved the whole summer camp experience around it.

"This year, for instance, our theme will be 'Mother Goose in Story Land.' One day we'll have staff members play characters from Mother Goose tales coming out of a 15 to 30 foot shoe and acting out their parts.

"On another day Bo Peep will lose her sheep, and the children will go looking for them. On another, each cabin will try to put together an enormous jigsaw puzzle of Humpty Dumpty.

"We also have Ronald MacDonald coming that week, a talent show featuring the children, a dance one night and a Christmas Day celebrating the spirit of giving."

Becomes curate

After he was ordained in 1965, Fr. Martin became curate at St. Michael's Church in Lowell. When he arrived there he discovered that after the director's death the choir had sunk to only six members.

The young priest saw the choir as a tool for bringing the parishioners together, so he took over as director although he didn't know how to read music.

"Basically people like to sing, they like to sing popular things," he believes, and he immediately put his beliefs into practice at St. Michael's. The choir was soon singing modern English and contemporary songs, the number of members increased dramatically and their songs were featured in two limited edition records for parishioners.

Choir gains fame

The Lowell curate's singers soon attracted attention outside the parish. The director of the Holy Name Society asked the choir to sing at a Mass on WNAC-TV, Channel 7 in Boston. Fr. Martin also met officials at the Catholic TV Center in Boston at that time.

Several years ago a federal judge granted the broadcasting license for Boston's Channel 5 to the present owners only five days before the new firm was supposed to begin broadcasting.

The owners wanted their first broadcast to consist of a choir singing religious songs. They called the Catholic TV Center for aid, and the assistant director there called on Fr. Martin to prepare a show for taping with only two days of notice.

Opens station's shows

"We taped the show on Thursday night, and it opened broadcasting on the station Sunday morning," he reported.

Not long after he began working with the choir, Fr. Martin staged the first of what were to become annual parish shows, each of which included general entertainment and capsule versions of Broadway musicals such as "My Fair Lady" and "The Sound of Music." The shows further strengthened parish ties and earned funds for religious education programs.

Almost three years ago Fr. Martin took over as associate pastor at St. Robert's. He found the parish a particularly challenging one.

Parish had problems

The majority of parishioners came from Tewksbury or Andover, with a trickle of others from two or three other nearby towns and cities. Parishioners tended to stick together based on town or city lines. Just getting the word out on parish activities sometimes required seeking publicity in four or more newspapers.

Fr. Martin saw the ham in everyone as a still-useful tool for getting everyone together. With the support of his pastor, the Rev. William J. Fitzgerald, he has organized two annual occasions he calls a "Nite to Remember." They include a Mass, champagne hour, dinner, dancing and a parish musical.

Parishioners have repeated the musical shows for senior citizens at the Methuen Mall, Tewksbury State Hospital and even on WBZ-TV, Channel 4.

Has outside activities

Fr. Martin, spends a large part of his spare time at speaking engagements in which he explains and shows slides of Camp Fatima, earning thousands of dollars for camp, which costs $12,000 a year to operate tuition free.

"We hope to be able to get someone to lend or give us video tape recording equipment so we can televise camp activities and show them as part of my presentations," he said.

Has theatrical contacts

For several years the Town & Country Playhouse in Salem, N.H., has borrowed costumes from Fr. Martin's parishes, and he knows the producer, Dave Garmel, well.

"Recently I was talking to him about a benefit for Fatima, and he asked if I would like to be in a show we could use as a fund raiser," Fr. Martin explained.

"I began to think of how my appearing in a fund raiser for Camp Fatima might help the camp become better known, and might earn maybe $600 or $700 for the camp just from people who know me.

"Dave suggested I play Ben Franklin in the musical '1776.' I accepted, and I'll play the part at the playhouse August 6 to 10, with the fund raised scheduled August 10.

"I'm selling 300 block tickets up until August 10, and a percentage of the proceeds will go for the camp. If the whole thing proves successful I may do it again.

Fr. Martin sees his acting, dancing and singing with New York performers in a professional summer stock production as not only benefiting Camp Fatima, but also accomplishing two other goals he believes are important.

Explains philosophy

He explained, "I feel people should see the priest not only as a part of the church, but also of the community. They should see the priest as someone set apart, but also as an individual striving to express the image of Christ as he sees him with the talents, personality and makeup that he has.

"The Lord has given us so many talents, and priests are no different from anyone else. There are priests who are good athletes, scientists, teachers, administrators, musicians and artists.

"I feel that the Lord has given me my talents to use, and one day he is going to ask me to account for how I used them. I hope to be able to say I used them to the best of my ability."

Over 200 attend Super-stars event

Last Tuesday the Tewksbury-Wilmington Lodge of Elks was the scene of the first annual superstars competition for special children in the area. Over 200 participants, helpers and friends were on hand.

Area towns in competition, included running and field events, hockey shooting, softball throwing and other field activities.

The Tewksbury-Wilmington Elks were present to cheer for the Superstars, and provided soft drinks for everyone. A special guest appearance by Ron Burton, former Patriots linebacker added to the excitement of the day.

Mr. Burton's genuine interest in the special of the community was evident, as he took time out from his busy schedule to visit the competition.

Other guest appearances by Rec Director Ron Swasey and Elks President Len Bagley were also appreciated. Mr. Burton and Mr. Bagley presented trophies to the top three team point scorers in the competition who were first, Wilmington, second Tewksbury and third Billerica.

Cease and desist order

(From Page One)

At one point in the testimony Mr. Deloury said that there was one hundred thousand yards of gravel that had to be removed. He was selling a part of this to the Town of Wilmington. The figure of 100,000 was partly contested by Mr. Altman, who, however offered no other figure.

Atty Altman told the Clerk that the Town Manager had issued a Cease and Desist order, after proper consultation with the selectmen, and after the gravel operations had been started, off Aldrich Road.

The Cease and Desist order had been properly served, Altman said, and three days later the Deloury trucks were still operating. Pat Leonard, of the Wilmington Police was present to testify, but his presence seemed to be enough as he was not asked to. Altman also said that truck ownership, and licenses, had been verified with the State Registry of Motor Vehicles.

Atty. Joseph Courtney, appearing for Mr. Cormier, told the Clerk that the area in question, about 25 acres, was an approved subdivision, approved back in the fall of 1972, by the Wilmington Planning Board. The Planning Board, Courtney said, had discussed the plans with the developer over a long period of time, with grades and road levels imposed by the Planning Board, for drainage and utilities, to be maintained by the developer.

Mr. Cormier, said Courtney, could not construct the roads until he brought the level down to that imposed by the Planning Board. The present work was being done to conform to Planning Board approved plans.

Mr. Altman argued that the developer had to get a permit from the Board of Selectmen, before he could remove the gravel, and particularly if that gravel was going out of town.

No such permit was needed, said Courtney, because the developer was merely bringing the area into conformation with the plans approved by the Planning Board. In particular Courtney pointed to Clause 17, Section 21 of Chapter 40 which, he said, clearly indicated that the Planning Board signature was all that was needed in Wilmington.

The two attorneys argued as to the application of Clause 17 to several places in Massachusetts, one of them being in Westwood. In that case a gravel argument had been a case involving the Zoning By Law and the Board of Appeals. Courtney pointed out to the Clerk that no Zoning Law was involved, in the present case, in Wilmington.

A particular emphasis was made by Mr. Altman on the excavations, not only along the proposed roadway, but also in the proposed houselots. Altman argued that there was nothing to keep a developer from digging and digging until he had a deep hole, and had sold all the gravel. Then the developer could leave, and let the town sell the hole for taxes.

This Courtney said, was impossible, if a town engineer was doing his job, and making inspections.

Bob Higgins, Town Engineer, had already testified as to what he had seen, along the proposed Houghton Road. Higgins said he saw no excavations below the grade as established by the Planning Board.

Altman raised questions as to where the gravel come from. Was it from the roadway, or from the proposed lots. Part of it, Higgins said, was from the lots.

The Town Manager, who stood and listened during the long proceedings, was not asked to testify, except once to acknowledge that he was Town Manager of Wilmington.

The arguments took two hours, and then the Clerk of the Court began to explore the possibility of a peaceful settlement.

Altman said that one reason the Selectmen were concerned was because they wanted to keep gravel in Wilmington, and not be faced with a lot of pot-holes, such as had been left after the Route 93 construction.

The Clerk asked Mr Deloury if he could keep the gravel in Wilmington. Deloury said he was keeping part of it in town, about 90%, but he could not guarantee that there would not be out of town sales, because he had to "move" the gravel.

Courtney said there was a time factor, in the grading of the subdivision.

The Town Manager said that the Town could not buy all the 100,000 yards of gravel.

It was after this last exchange that the hearing was completed, and Mr. Paleologos held a private consultation with the two attorneys.

After that consultation they said that they were instructed to try to achieve a compromise that would be acceptable to both parties.

The Crusaders are in white

As practically everyone knows, the Wilmington Crusaders, a Drum and Bugle Corps, has members selling chances for a shopping spree, in a local store, as a part of their fund raising efforts for a trip to Prince Edward Island in mid-August.

Reports have come to the Town Crier that the Crusaders are not alone, in their fund raising. Another Drum and Bugle Corps, an out-of-town organization, has young people in practically every town and city northwest of Boston, selling candy and chances. Included in those towns and cities are both Wilmington and Tewksbury.

The Crusaders have been very careful to clear themselves, with local authorities. They cleared their activities with local officials in Wilmington, and with the Wilmington Chamber of Commerce.

The out-of-town organization has not attempted to get any clearance of any kind. The organization is simply sending out young people, in uniform, on a door-to-door campaign. In some instances there have been donations, from people who thought they were giving to the Crusaders.

The young people from the out-of-town organization are dressed in red shirts or blouses, white sashes, and black skirts or pants. The Crusaders are dressed in white uniforms.

Wilmington officials to attend Assessing Meeting

Mayor Kevin White of Boston is inviting a large number of officials to attend a meeting in Boston City Hall, next Tuesday at 11 a.m. to discuss the 100% Assessment rule, in Massachusetts, as ordered by the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court.

The Boston Mayor is leading legislators and others who are opposed to the 100% assessment.

He has sent a letter to many people, saying that the ramifications of the 100% assesment will be far reaching. A letter to Wilmington officials says the residential tax will increase 13%.

The bill that Mr. White wants to discuss next Tuesday is H 5398, and the terms that relate to the various cities and towns in Massachusetts. There will be another hearing on the same bill on

SUPPLEMENTARY RENT INCOME: To the tune of $73,000 has been approved for Wilmington, and will help to pay the rent for 27 housing units in Wilmington.

The money is furnished under Section 8, Public Law 93-383, Title II, U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development. Shown signing the approved housing applications are Wilmington Housing Authority Chairman George Hooper and Town Manager Sterling Morris. In the rear are Henry Borrazzo, WHA executive director, Barbara Larson, treasurer, and Leo Woodside, vice-chairman of the housing authority.

August 11, at 7:30 p.m. in the Gardner Auditorium, in the State House.

Rep. Fred F. Cain, Town Manager Sterling Morris and Principal Assessor Anthony Krzeminski are to attend the Mayor's hearing, from the Town of Wilmington.

The three men are attending the meeting, the Town Crier has been told "to see what the story is."

Here to stay?

An Oakland, California resident, Vicki Nelson has arrived in Wilmington in time to help celebrate the second wedding anniversary of her mother and step-father, Diane and Richard Butler of Pond St., also formerly of Oakland. Vicki's parents say that (hopefully) she and her Honda are here to stay.
